Trusted by the Government, accessible to everyone.

Our award-winning Kahootz cloud collaboration service started in 2003. It is wholly owned, developed, and hosted in the UK.

We are serious about cyber-security and protecting your data. In addition to regular, independent certification of our business operations and cloud security controls, you'll be pleased to learn that Kahootz is one of the few cloud services accredited by security-conscious Government departments such as the UK's Ministry of Defence and the Department of Health.

Building on these impressive credentials, Kahootz is now used by hundreds of thousands of people across public sector organisations, enterprises and not-for-profits to find smarter, safer, ways of working in the cloud.
