Is my Kahootz data backed up?

Graham Smith - 2017-06-22 - Security / Privacy

Yes, of course. We've been running online collaboration systems for well over a decade, so we follow or exceed all the industry best practices. Your data is held on a series of resilient RAID disc arrays, so we're protected from individual disc or machine failure. We have machines in two physically separate data centres, and data is copied between them almost instantly. We also have a series of snapshot backup points in case of a need to recover old data and a separate encrypted off-site backup in the highly unlikely event of all of those being unavailable.

Related Content

- How secure is Kahootz?
- Where are the data centres?
- Exporting your Data / Off-Boarding